His fame as a sorceror or conjuror fills the land. He has long figured in the popular imagination as a person intimately allied, if not visibly connected in some Siamese-twin fashion, with the prince of the power of the air, and with the powers that rule beneath the waters of the earth. He will astound the public by exhibitions in Brainard's Hall next Thursday and Friday venings. A New York paper thus speaks f him and his feats: Herisann's programme of last week was urprising enough, but his performance this week supasses the capacity of human com-orehension. Some of his feats last night celled anything we have before seen efected by any agency. Whether the influences impressed into the service of the per-ormer are of the earth early, or are borowner are of the earth earlby, or are bor-owed from the realms above or below, it is not within the power of his audience to de-ide. Many, no doubt, attributed them to cultivated acquaintance with the presiding remius of the lower regions, while the more becreast must have detected in the extra-rdinary transformations which baffled all the senses nothing more than the wonderful sensibility of Herr Hermann's fingers. Among the best of the new tricks presented last night was the "devil's hat," out of which he produced more substential ma-terials in the shape of cards, and gobleta, and lighted lanterns than a hundred hats could contain. After crushing and atterly demolishing the chapeau, he sent it flying to the roof of the Academy, and brought it down by a wave of his wand in perfect con-dition, to the hands of its astonished owner. pencer, a young merchant of Hiram Rapids, ringe county, came to this city last Tuesday evening, the 14th inst, and put up at having been considered perfect in this de-Russell's Forest City House.
